President & CEO

Audra@linkforfamilies.org

Born and raised in Alma, Audra has always been very proud to call Gratiot County her home, and enjoys helping to make this a safe and healthy community to live in and raise a family. Audra has a Bachelor's degree in Sociology from Central MI University and still loves all things CMU. Fire Up Chips! With a passion for helping others, Audra has spent the past 20 plus years working in the human service field. In 2007, Audra joined the Child Advocacy team as the Protect Yourself Teacher. She took over as the Executive Director for the agency at the end of 2009, and helped facilitate the move into the Wilcox Non-Profit Center. Audra learned quickly that collaboration was the key to successful programming at Child Advocacy, and attributes much of the agency's growth and development to collaborative partnerships along with an amazing and committed staff. Along with the work Audra does at Child Advocacy, she is also an Alma City Commissioner and a member of the Board of Directors for the Gratiot County Community Foundation and Gratiot Area Chamber of Commerce. Audra brought the nationally recognized group 100 Women Who Care to Gratiot County and started a local chapter in 2013. Audra is also a member of the Alma Woman's Club and Alma/St. Louis Rotary Club. Audra enjoys traveling, reading, and spending time with her husband and children.
