Pam grew up in western Gratiot County and graduated from Alma High School. Growing up she had always wanted to help other people and had a passion for the safety and well-being of children. She earned her Bachelor of Social Work degree from Ferris State University. Pam worked in a licensed child care center for 16 years before coming to Child Advocacy as the Office Manager. She is also a nationally certified car seat technician and can often be found installing or inspecting a car seat for visitors to Child Advocacy. Pam says, "Being able to see all of the children and families that the team at Child Advocacy helps is an awesome thing to witness day after day". Pam enjoys spending time outside as well as with her family and animals, but never passes up a good book to read.
